Saluting volunteers

This week, volunteers will be recognized in communities across the country as we celebrate National Volunteer Week. On behalf of On The Front Line Society (breast cancer fund), I would like to issue heartfelt thanks to all of our volunteers. Over the last 14 years, many women with big hearts have brought their enthusiasm and commitment to our cause, helping to make Titz'n Glitz fundraisers a roaring success.

On The Front Line provides short-term financial assistance to women and men in financial need, who have been diagnosed with breast cancer and are living in Nova Scotia. This fund does not pay for research, but instead provides money for groceries, drugs not covered by insurance, child care, lymphedema sleeves and so much more.

The Volunteer Week theme, "Volunteers: from compassion to action," truly embodies our magnificent group who help make this fund a reality.

Those dealing with the financial realities of a breast cancer diagnosis can access the fund by contacting the district health authority in their area or by visiting www.titznglitz.com for detailed contact information. All names and medical records are kept confidential.
